Academic Regulations

1. Registration

Students are required to register for classes no later than the dates as indicated in the Academic Calendar. A late fee of ¥2,000 will be charged to those who register after this deadline. A late fee of ¥5,000 will be charged to those who register after the first week of classes.

In order to register for classes, it is mandatory that you finish your necessary payments (or apply for the Student Loan).

2. Credits

One semester is fifteen weeks long, and includes a half-week orientation program.

The required Spoken Japanese course carries 5 semester credits, which means five 50-minute class periods per week for fifteen weeks.

Japanese Reading & Writing course carries 3 semester credits, which means three 50-minute class periods per week for fifteen weeks. However, “Introduction to the Japanese Writing System” is a five-week course and carries 1 semester credit.

Other non-Japanese language courses carry 3 semester credits and meet for twice a week for fifteen weeks.

3. Requirements

Students must register for a minimum of 14 semester credits, and may not register for more than 17 semester credits. All students must register for Spoken Japanese.

Students who plan to enroll in our program for one academic year are strongly advised to register for Japanese Reading & Writing, as well.

No student is permitted to take the Ceramics and Sumi-e courses at the same time, nor register for an increased load of either one.

4. Changing Courses (Drop/Add)

To change your registration, submit a PETITION TO CHANGE CURRENT REGISTRATION FORM at the Center for International Education.

A student may withdraw (drop) from a course (except Spoken Japanese) without academic penalty during the first three (3) weeks. The final date for dropping courses is Monday, September 24.

Academic Regulations

A student may add course(s) during the first two (2) weeks of the semester. The final date for adding courses is Monday, September 18.

Dropping a course on/before the deadline will leave no record of enrollment on your transcript. However, if a student fails to meet the deadline and/or fails to comply with the official procedure, his/her grade will be "F" in the course.

No petition will be accepted without the signature of the instructor of the course. It is the student's responsibility to see his/her instructor to secure the signature.

Not attending a class does not constitute official withdrawal from the course.

5. Audit

Students may register for a course on an audit basis by obtaining permission from the instructor of the course. Students may not audit Japanese language courses. Registration on an audit basis will not lead to academic credit, nor will it appear on the student's transcript.

Change of registration from audit to credit is permitted only during the period of adding courses.

Change of registration from credit to audit is permitted only during the period of dropping courses.

No changes will be permitted after the periods specified above.

6. Incomplete

An Incomplete grade will be assigned only when illness or other extenuating reasons beyond the control of the student prevent the completion of all course requirements by the end of the semester.

Students who apply for an Incomplete are required to complete a "Contract for the Completion of the Incomplete" form and submit it to the Center for International Education. Please note that any contract without the signature of the course instructor will not be accepted. The completed contract must be submitted to the Center no later than one week prior to the final examination week.

An Incomplete may not be assigned for any Japanese language course. In all other courses, the assignment of an Incomplete must be approved by the course instructor and the Dean of the Center for International Education.

Academic Regulations

All Incompletes must be removed within six weeks from the end of the semester for which the Incomplete was assigned. Notification of removal will be made by the instructor on the "Removal of Incomplete Grade" form.

A grade of "I" which is not removed during the required period and by the procedure prescribed above will automatically become an "F" on the student's transcript.

No Incomplete is permissible for students applying to extend their stay at Kansai Gaidai into the second semester.

7. Academic Warning

An Academic Warning shall be issued during the semester to students who, in the determination of the instructor, are not making adequate progress in the course and are in danger of receiving a grade of "D" or "F" unless significant improvement is shown before the end of the semester. Student performance will be assessed on the basis of quizzes, reports, mid-term exams, etc. Students receiving an Academic Warning are strongly encouraged to consult with the instructor concerning steps to be taken to meet course standards.

8. Repetition of Courses

If a student wishes to enroll in the second semester, a "D" in a Japanese Language course will require him/her to repeat the course.

9. Independent Study

Independent study is a credit course designed to allow students to investigate an area of interest not within our course offerings or to research more extensively than is possible in a regular course. Students applying for approval of an independent study are expected to have background in the proposed field of study adequate for pursuing work independently, under the supervision of a faculty supervisor. Students should make arrangements with the supervising faculty member before the end of the semester prior to that in which the independent study is to be undertaken.

Independent study will be permitted under the following conditions:

- 1) A project that the student wishes to study is not offered in a regular course.

Academic Regulations

- 2) Only those students who have completed one semester at Kansai Gaidai will be permitted to undertake an Independent Study during their second semester of residence.
- 3) Independent study projects cannot be arranged for Japanese language courses.
- 4) In principle, a student may receive credit for only one independent study course in a given semester.
- 5) It is the student's sole responsibility to meet with the instructor who will supervise the study in the area of his/her interest. Thus we suggest that the student start making plans and contacting the instructor well in advance.
- 6) If there is any reason to believe that credit for an independent study project may not be accepted by the student's home institution, it is the student's sole responsibility to contact the proper authorities at that institution for clarification.

Proposals for Independent Study

- 1) Independent study requires a thorough description of the work to be undertaken. Therefore, it is essential to plan well in advance of registration.
- 2) Students are required to complete the "Application for Enrollment in Independent Study Program," in which they should outline the study topic, specifications of the work to be done, materials to be used, and a statement of the evaluative criteria to be used by the instructor.
- 3) The deadline for the application for independent study is Tuesday, September 4. A complete application, including a signature from your faculty supervisor, must be submitted no later than the deadline. Since registration for independent study is based on permission from the faculty and the Dean, students are advised to register for four other courses by the end of the registration period, and drop one course (if you wish) when you are granted permission for an independent study course. Please carefully note that no application for independent study will be accepted after the deadline (i.e. The add period will not apply to independent study courses.). Application forms are available at the office.

Academic Regulations

10. Examinations

Mid-term examinations will be given during regular class periods as specified in the course syllabus for each semester. There will be a separate schedule for final examinations. The specific schedule will be announced early in the semester. Examinations will not be given outside the regular exam schedule, and thus will not be changed according to individual student's convenience.

11. Attendance

Students are expected to attend all class meetings in which they are enrolled. Specific attendance requirements will be individually established by instructors. Excessive absences may result in low grades and subsequent denial of approval to re-enroll.

12. Grading System

The grading scale will be as follows:

A: Highest Level of Attainment B: High Level of Attainment
C: Adequate Level of Attainment D: Minimal Passing Level
F: Failed, No Credit I: Incomplete
W: Withdrawal

W (Withdrawal) may be granted only when a student must withdraw from a course because of extenuating circumstances. This must be approved by the Dean of the Center for International Education.

Quality Points:

A+ (4.0)	B+ (3.3)	C+ (2.3)	D+ (1.3)	F (0)
A (4.0)	B (3.0)	C (2.0)	D (1.0)	I (0)
A- (3.7)	B- (2.7)	C- (1.7)	D- (0.7)

Grades combine the results of course work, mid-term and/or final examinations, quizzes and class participation. The Pass-Fail system or Credit - No Credit system is not used at Kansai Gaidai.

13. Transcript

One copy of the student's transcript will automatically be sent to his/her home institution free of charge.

Academic Regulations

Students who wish to have additional copies sent to institutions should make their requests to the Center for International Education and include ¥500 per copy.

In all cases, transcripts will be held until all outstanding obligations to Kansai Gaidai (loans, library books, etc.) have been completely settled.

14. Behavior

If a student acts in such a manner as to bring discredit to Kansai Gaidai (i.e. violates the laws of Japan), or conducts himself/herself in such a manner as to infringe upon the rights of other students, faculty, or staff, or through unacceptable behavior indicates that he/she has no interest in any longer pursuing studies at Kansai Gaidai (i.e. excessive absences), he/she may be asked to leave the Asian Studies Program.

15. Academic Conduct

The Asian Studies Program takes very seriously any incident of academic cheating. Cheating is unfair to students who work honestly and compromises both the learning and evaluation processes. Academic cheating includes, but is not limited to, plagiarism (using previously published work without properly acknowledging the source, including that available on the internet); submitting work done in collusion with a student or someone else in a manner not authorized by the instructor; misconduct on an examination; submission of a paper written for a previous course, or submission of substantially the same paper in two or more Asian Study Program courses without consent of the instructor(s) involved; or any other attempt to dishonestly pass off another's work as one's own or otherwise create an unfair academic advantage.

The penalties for academic cheating may include failure on the assignment, failure in the course, and refusal of request for extension into a second semester.

16. ID Card

Each student will be issued a Kansai Gaidai Student Identification Card. Since this card is indispensable (it is needed to enter the school library, gym, etc.), you should carry it with you at all times.

Also, various student discount fares are available for commuting, long distance travels, admission to movie theaters, etc.

Academic Regulations

If this card is lost or damaged, it must immediately be reported to the Center for International Education. A new card will be re-issued to you at a cost of ¥3,000.

17. Terminology for Enrollment Status

Students are roughly divided into two categories; participants who have been recommended from institutions having formal affiliation agreements with Kansai Gaidai, and participants who have directly applied to Kansai Gaidai. The latter are classified as Independent Students at Kansai Gaidai.

Those from affiliated programs can be generally divided into three types; Full-Exchange Students who pay tuition and room and board fees to their home institutions and thus are not charged any of these fees at Kansai Gaidai (except for deposits), Tuition and Fees Exchange Students, who pay their tuition to their home institutions and are totally responsible for their room and board fees at Kansai Gaidai. In these two cases, the academic fees paid to their home institutions will be used by their counterpart Japanese students. The third type is Term/Year Abroad Program Participants, who are officially recommended by affiliated institutions and payments are usually handled through these institutions. In this case, however, there are no counterpart

Japanese students going from Kansai Gaidai to these institutions.

Because the specifics vary somewhat according to the agreement with each institution, it is strongly advised that you contact the Center for International Education, should you have any questions regarding payments, registration, etc.

18. Field Trips

Arranging field trips to manufacturers and other enterprises is very difficult and usually requires that a list of participants be submitted to the enterprise well in advance of the date of the trip. Apparently because of security considerations, all participants listed must be present for the trip and if not, future field trips may be placed in jeopardy.

Thus, to ensure that future students in the Asian Studies Program will have the opportunity to participate in similar activities, we ask that you sign the participation agreement confirming your intentions to participate.

Should you for any reason not participate (after signing the participation agreement), ¥2,000 from your ¥10,000 deposit will be forfeited.

Extension of Stay

Since all participants are guaranteed admission for one semester only, students who wish to extend their stay at Kansai Gaidai for a second semester must apply for extension of stay and are required to complete the following procedures. Please note that failure to comply with these procedures may result in denial of re-admission.

1. Submit to the Center for International Education, a completed "APPLICATION FOR EXTENSION OF STAY" no later than:

October 19 (Fri)

Information will be available from October 10 (Wed).

2. Approval of extension will depend on overall academic performance during the previous semester and faculty recommendation. Normally at least a 2.0 GPA with no F's will be considered the minimum standard for the approval of extension into a second semester. At least a 3.0 GPA and strong recommendations from the faculty will be required for the approval of extension into the third semester.

No "Incomplete" is permissible for students applying for extension.

3. Official Notification: Students will receive official notification of "APPROVAL OR DISAPPROVAL OF THE APPLICATION" on:

December 19 (Wed)

4. Students whose extension requests are approved must pay the tuition deposit of ¥200,000 or $2,000 between:

December 19-20 (Wed-Thu)

This money will be credited to your tuition payment to Kansai Gaidai for the next semester. Failure to fulfill this financial obligation will result in automatic cancellation from the program.

5. Students extending their stay are not required to participate in the next semester's orientation program. However, it will be the student's responsibility to officially register for classes by the end of the orientation period after completing all of the necessary payments to Kansai Gaidai, and to check their class schedule prior to the academic session.

Extension of Stay

6. Kansai Gaidai will not arrange any accommodations during the summer break. Therefore, it will be the student's responsibility to secure appropriate housing during the summer break.
7. In case of sudden withdrawal from the program, refunds will be based upon our refund policy as specified in the Asian Studies Program brochure.
8. Students whose extension requests are not approved must leave their host families or the Seminar House by:

December 22 (Sat)

IMPORTANT NOTICE: Since visas for all the Asian Studies Program participants are sponsored by Kansai Gaidai, in accordance with Japanese immigration laws, if you terminate your relationship with Kansai Gaidai, you are responsible for securing new sponsorship and changing your visa status.

Furthermore, we are required to report to the Immigration Office that you are no longer students at Kansai Gaidai, and if you intend to remain in Japan you must secure new sponsorship.

Japanese Language Courses

Japanese Language Class Policy

Japanese Only Policy

Learning a language does not happen only in class. It is very important to use the target language in real life. That is why we strongly encourage you to speak Japanese in every situation. As a Japanese course policy, you are required to speak to all Japanese instructors in Japanese except for emergency situations. Your effort to use Japanese could be evaluated as a part of your class performance in Reading and Writing classes as well as Spoken Japanese classes.

Japanese Language Courses

1. Spoken Japanese courses (SPJ): students are required to attend five periods of classroom work each week. Self-study of using the audio-visual materials available in the Language Lab is required.
2. Reading and Writing Japanese classes (RWJ): Students who take these courses are required to attend three periods of classroom work each week. All students who cannot read and write in hiragana and katakana characters well are strongly recommended to take a regular Reading and Writing course. If, however, this is not possible, such students are required to take Reading and Writing 1 for the first five weeks as Introduction to the Japanese Writing System (1 credit).
3. Prerequisites for classes

Spoken Japanese 2-7

C- or higher grade in the next lower level of Spoken Japanese course, or equivalent

Reading and Writing Japanese Courses

Corresponding Spoken Japanese proficiency is required; Reading and Writing level should not be higher than Spoken Japanese level. Additionally the following requirements should be satisfied:

Reading and Writing Japanese 2-7

C- or higher grade in the next lower level of Reading and Writing course, or equivalent

4. Repeating Courses (If your grade did not allow you to advance to the next level)

Spoken Japanese 1-7

If your grade was in the D range, it is mandatory to repeat the same level in the next semester.

Japanese Language Class Policy

Reading and Writing Courses

Reading and Writing 1-7

If your grade was in the D range, it is possible to repeat the same level or not to take a Reading and Writing course in the next semester.

5. Absence Policy

If a student misses, for any reason, more than 30% of the regularly scheduled class periods in a semester, a final grade of F will be given regardless of academic performance.

6. Arriving Late to Classes

Students must be on time for classes. If a student is late three times, it will be considered one full class period missed on the attendance record.

7. Absence on Quiz/Exam Days

Quizzes will be given regularly. As a rule, no make-up quizzes will be given. In case of an unavoidable problem, inform the instructor in advance. The Mid-term and Final Examination schedule will not be changed for any reason. However, absence owing to serious illness accompanied by a medical certificate will be taken into consideration.

8. Grading

The grading system for the language courses will be based upon the following, unless stated otherwise in the syllabus for a particular course:

Quizzes, performance in class and L.L., etc.	50%
Mid-Term Examination	20%
Final Examination	30%
	<hr/>
	Total 100%

Letter Grade:

A 93-100	B+ 87-89	C+ 77-79	D+ 67-69	F 0-59

Japanese Language Class Policy

Jump Test

Those students who have done exceptionally well and received a high A in a Japanese language course may be allowed to take the Jump Test after studying the designated materials during the summer/winter vacation. Those who pass the test will be permitted to skip the next level. In order to take the Jump Test students must follow the procedure explained below:

- 1) By the last day of classes,
express your interest in taking a Jump Test to your current Japanese language instructor and find out when she/he will finish grading for the course.
- 2) Soon after your instructor has finished grading for your course, ask him/her whether you are eligible to take a Jump Test. (Your instructor will decide your eligibility on the basis of your class performance, final grade, and amount of time available for you to study during the break.)
- 3) If you are eligible to take a Jump Test, receive from your instructor a written permission with the date and place of your Jump Test, and find out what materials you should study during the break. (Bring the permission to the Jump Test.)
- 4) During the break, study the materials designated by your instructor. You must devote your time and energy thoroughly to it. If you leave the materials half done and fail the jump test, you will have to re-study the same materials.
- 5) On the day of the Jump Test, come to the place at the designated time, show the written permission to any Japanese language instructor at the location, and take the test.

Important: The Jump Test is administered for only those who have followed the above procedure; those who ask to take a Jump Test for the first time at the beginning of a new semester will NOT be allowed to take one.

Japanese Language Courses

Japanese language courses are divided into two categories: Spoken Japanese and Reading and Writing Japanese. All students are required to take Spoken Japanese. Reading and Writing classes are electives. However, all four skills, speaking, listening, reading and writing must be adequately developed. Therefore, reading and writing skills are not entirely excluded in the Spoken Japanese classes. The same applies to the Reading and Writing classes, which include some conversation.

In all the language courses, there will be mid-term and final exams and additional quizzes in written and/or aural/oral form. Homework assignments will also be given.

Spoken Japanese Language Courses

Spoken Japanese 1

The first level of Elementary Spoken Japanese for beginners who have no knowledge of the language or no formal training in the language. Those who have studied Japanese but have not yet attained a firm grasp of the basic grammar are also advised to take this course. The course aims at the development of speaking and listening skills. However, hiragana and katakana will be used throughout the course. At the end of the course, successful students should be able to speak simple sentences needed for daily conversation.

It will develop communication skills in spoken Japanese to the point where students can deal with a wide range of academic topics and with basic facts about Japanese business, culture and society, etc. Up-to-date audio-visual materials including Japanese TV programs are used, and the major portion of classes will be spent on oral interaction such as discussions, presentations, debates or speeches.

Textbook: To be announced in the class. Videotaped materials and handouts

Spoken Japanese 6

This course is an early to intermediate stage of advanced Spoken Japanese for those who do not have any difficulty in daily conversation. The level is suitable for students who are at around Level 2 or slightly higher of the Japanese Language Proficiency Test (of JEES). Approximately half the class will be spent on discussions, speeches, projects, learning advanced vocabulary and expressions. This course is the advanced Spoken Japanese for those who have already achieved proficiency of Japanese Language Proficiency Test Level 1 or its equivalent. The schedule is designed to prepare students for professional careers where a high level of Japanese proficiency is required. The course aims at developing a higher level of competency in listening to and speaking Japanese through discussion, debate and directed research on various topics. By performing these activities, students will gain a deeper understanding of contemporary Japanese culture and society. Audio-visual materials are used to further develop and refine listening and speaking skills. Individual projects will be assigned.

Textbook: To be announced in the class

Reading and Writing Courses

Introduction to the Japanese Writing System (1 credit)

The very basic introductory five-week Kana and Basic Kanji course. This is not a separate course, but is integrated with the regular Reading and Writing Japanese 1 course. Hiragana and katakana and some very basic kanji will be introduced in this course.

This course is required for students who do not have enough knowledge of hiragana and katakana to handle the Spoken Japanese language course.

The students in this course may upgrade by switching Reading and Writing1 (1 credit) to the regular Reading and Writing1 (3 credits) before the end of the fifth week.

Regular Reading and Writing Japanese Courses

These courses will be devoted not only to the learning of hiragana, katakana, and kanji, but also to training in the writing of compositions and to the development of reading comprehension ability. Various kinds of materials may be used in class. Mid-term and final exams and quizzes will be given in each course. Homework assignments will also be given.

Reading and Writing Japanese 1

The first level of Reading and Writing Japanese. The course presupposes no prior knowledge of written Japanese. Starting with the introduction of hiragana and katakana, approximately 100 kanji will also be introduced during the semester. We will read and write Japanese on simple everyday topics such as diaries, messages, and letters.

Textbook:

The courses in the Asian Studies Program are generally equivalent to 300 or 400 level upper division (third- and fourth-year) courses in most other universities in terms of level of difficulty and amount of work required. Most of them are designed to accommodate non-majors. For a few courses, however, it is recommended that students have some level of background in the course discipline. Students are advised to read the course descriptions carefully and consult with the course instructor should there be any questions about course level or requirements.

Issues in Labor Management in Japan

Prof. Garr Reynolds

Human Resource Management (HRM) is the management process of meeting organizational goals by acquiring, developing, retaining, terminating, and appropriately leveraging the firm's human resources. In each of these areas, Japanese firms differ in important respects from their counterparts in other countries. In this class we'll examine the impact of culture and changing labor markets on HRM strategies and tactics.

Course Topics

- Key HRM concepts and objectives. The strategic role of HRM.
- Overview of HRM in Japan.
- The Japanese approach to recruiting, employee selection, and placement.
- Education, Training & Development in Japanese corporations.
 - Training programs
 - Development methods
- Corporate culture and the role of HR.
- Women in the Japanese labor force.
- Wage & salary management.
- Labor laws and regulations.
- Working for a Japanese company: Challenges and rewards for foreign nationals working for organizations in Japan.
- HRM challenges confronting Japanese organizations and Japanese society today (e.g., "life-time employment," unemployment, retraining, youth employment).

Classroom Activities

The course will be a combination of lecture, discussion, and group work. You will examine current, real-life challenges faced by HR departments in Japanese companies today. Working in small groups, you will have the opportunity to apply what you have learned by researching a specific HRM issue in Japan and presenting your research findings to the class in a formal presentation.

Group Presentations

Students will be assigned to groups of three with the responsibility of researching the assigned topic, presenting their findings in class, and leading the class in discussions for the assigned class period. Visual aids should be used for the formal presentation (e.g., PowerPoint, flip charts, overheads, etc.). Creativity counts! Students will need to spend time outside of class researching and preparing their material together. Groups are strongly advised to meet with the professor before the presentation for direction and assistance with the topic research and presentation organization.

Readings

Various readings will be issued in class, and a packet will be available for purchase for other required readings for ¥500.

Japanese Management, Innovation and Education in the 21st-Century

Prof. Garr Reynolds

In order for Japan to remain as one of the world's leading economic powers, it will need to adapt to myriad domestic and global changes. Many aspects of Japanese society, business, and education will need to change, and indeed have changed already.

In this course some of the following issues and questions will be discussed:

- What are Japan's fundamental domestic and international challenges?
- What is traditional Japanese-style management?
- How must Japan redesign business and management practices for a competitive future?
- How can Japan revitalize technology and innovation?
- What are the new maverick companies of today in Japan?
- Who are Japan's maverick leaders?
- What kind of talent is needed to drive creativity and innovation in the 21st century?
- How must the education systems change and adapt to meet future needs?
- 21st-century education for a 21st-century workforce: How to prepare students to be creative, productive, and happy in a new world?
- How can Japan thrive by being both more global and more distinctively itself?
- The research imperative: How can continued investment in research revitalize the Japanese economy?

In addition to these questions, students will have opportunities to research and present on issues such as: the graying of Japan; the role of women in education and the workforce; various issues related to the process of recovery from the March 11, 2011 disaster in Tohoku; the future of green energy in Japan; and many more contemporary issues.

Student Contributions

The philosophy behind the instruction of this course is that each student makes significant contributions to the class. This will be done in two ways (1) Students will be expected to actively participate in class discussions and in small groups activities and projects. (2) Students will make a formal, interactive, dynamic presentation to the class on a specific topic of their choice which is related to one of Japan's 21st-century challenges. This presentation project will require much research and preparation outside of class. Since a large part of class involves interactive student presentations, several classes will be spent training students on the fundamental principles of effective 21st-century presentation, visual communication, and facilitation skills.

International Business: Doing Business in East Asia (China, Japan and Korea)

Dr. Stephen A. Zurcher

It has become almost impossible to read a newspaper, business magazine or textbook without encountering the idea of a "global market". In at least one definition of the term, a global market refers to the manner in which multinational enterprises select, enter into and manage foreign markets. In this course, we will examine the practical aspects of how firms choose to enter into foreign markets with a focus on East Asia. After learning the fundamental risks unique to foreign markets, we will use a case based approach to learn how executives select markets, develop entry strategies and manage the foreign venture. In order to truly understand the risks associated with business in East Asia, we will study business cases in which foreign firms have failed in their efforts as well as those who have successfully managed their entry into the Asian markets.

By the end of this course, the student will not only understand the theoretical and strategic issues related to entering a foreign market but will also understand that cultural, historic and structural issues can be as important as economic principles when entering a foreign market.

Course Topics

Introduction to international business and global trade

The current scale of international markets

Import/Export processes (guest lecturer)

Analyzing foreign markets with focus on Korea, Japan and China strategic concerns related to market entry.

Organizational implementation of foreign market entry

Case based examples of foreign firms in Korean, Japanese and Chinese markets and Japanese firms entry into foreign markets.

The selected cases are designed to highlight the principles mentioned above.

International Entrepreneurship: Focus on Japan

Dr. Stephen A. Zurcher

The role of entrepreneurship in an economy has been well documented and is of interest to businesspeople, politicians, professors and students. Creating and growing a new venture inside or outside a corporation is a task that few individuals are able to accomplish, even though many have the desire. Entrepreneurship in a foreign market introduces additional challenges and opportunities to the business owner. This course is based on an understanding of all the functional areas to the new venture creation process with a focus on those aspects that are of particular importance to the foreign business owner.

Students will learn how to discover and evaluate ideas for new ventures. In addition to lectures and assigned readings, the students will work on teams that develop a comprehensive business plan for a new venture in Japan. The combination of lecture and team projects will give students an opportunity to see the interaction and importance of market research, legal planning, financial statements and management strategy. Although these concepts will be generally applicable to the process of starting a business anywhere in the world, we will also focus on the unique opportunities and challenges involved in launching a business in Japan. As much as possible we will have guest lectures in class from entrepreneurs, foreign and Japanese, to outline their own business development efforts.

No prior business knowledge or coursework is required for this class.

Grading

Grading is based on a series of equally weighted quizzes and the business plan report. Team and class participation will also impact the final grade. □

Marketing Across Cultures

Dr. Steve Zurcher

This course emphasizes the role of diversity in world markets and the importance of local consumer knowledge and marketing practices. A cross-cultural approach is used which compares national marketing systems and local commercial customs in various countries. The impact of country differences in macroeconomic and regulatory environments on marketing activities is examined. Methodological difficulties pertaining to cross-cultural marketing research will be identified and we will develop strategies to address them. Finally, the study of interaction between business people from different cultures is discussed and will be simulated in class using case studies and in class simulations. While examples in the course will be global the focus will be on Asia and in particular Japan.

Learning Objectives

At the end of the course, a student should be able to:

- Understand the challenges confronting marketing across cultures.
- Be aware of the impact of macroeconomic differences and regulations on marketing activities among countries.
- Be prepared to develop and implement an international marketing plan

Course Organization

Subjects covered in the assigned chapters of the text will be presented and discussed in class. Students are expected to have read the assigned chapters and be prepared to present and discuss the topic selected for the class. The international experience and international research studies of the professor will be used to complement the textbook. Guest lecturers with direct experience in marketing across cultures will present their experience to the class. Small teams of students will also prepare and present one case study proposed in the detailed timetable of the course.

Global Business Teams

Dr. Scott Lind

As the world continues to become increasingly interconnected, many students will work in global contexts and will need related competencies. Creating effective work teams is challenging, even among people from similar backgrounds. Global teams face additional hurdles related to cultural differences, geographic and time zone separation, communication styles, differences in decision-making strategies, and role expectations, to name a few. Globally-competent teams understand that achieving their fullest potential requires relevant knowledge, skills, and attitudes.

The purpose of this course is to assist students in developing competencies related to effective teamwork in a global context. Upon completion, students will understand and be able to navigate cultural differences that impact team performance. To this end, students will create productive multicultural teams that benefit from shared goals, positive relations, trust, and empathy. A variety of methods and activities will be used in class, including discussion, experiential learning tools, simulations, lecture, critical incident, video critique, and personal reflection.

Course Topics

- Team formation and team building
- Personal leadership
- Goal development
- Conflict resolution
- Task and relationship orientations
- Communication styles
- Cultural values

International Business Ethics

Dr. John Shultz

Gross ethical lapses leading up to and during the recent financial crisis have brought misery to many and have tarnished the image of entire sectors of the global economy. Now more than ever, international business managers must demonstrate that they can be both moral and profitable. Global citizens and corporate leaders must show that they can think beyond the confines of a single culture's ideas about right and wrong with respect to the marketplace. With a concentration on Japan and Asia, this course is designed to broaden a student's perspective on business ethics through consideration of real-world issues and problem solving that any international business manager could face. We will also explore the emerging idea of a global ethical code and examine Japan's role in fostering this idea.

Classroom sessions and assignments are designed to challenge a student's initial perspectives. Important case studies, such as those of famous hedge fund managers and Japanese Internet entrepreneurs, will illustrate the realities and complexities of these issues. As ethics requires being able to establish and defend a position, this course is discussion-intensive and, at times, will require the student to playfully defend ideas that she/he may be personally opposed to.

Course Topics

How do we define ethics and business ethics?
Political Ideologies and Business
Socially Responsible Investing
Insider Trading
E-ethics

The Dynamics of Modern Japan

Dr. Paul D. Scott

This upper level history and political science course analyzes the transformation of Japan from a pre-modern society, isolated from the rest of the world, to a post-industrial society, interdependent on and successfully competitive with the rest of the world.

Japan has experienced two seminal events in last hundred years, the Meiji Restoration and the Allied Occupation, and is in the midst of a third, what we may tentatively call "Japan As a World Player." The Dynamics of Modern Japan will critically examine these events in terms of politics, policies and historicity. In addition, the developments in postwar Japanese politics will be stressed. The formation of the so-called "1955 System" and its recent collapse will be carefully analyzed.

Course Topics

State building during the Meiji period

The creation of the Imperial system

The development of democratic institutions

The rise of imperialism, The road to Pearl Harbor

The Greater East Asia War and the Pacific War.

The Occupation, The 1955 system

The rise of the Japanese economy

LDP dominance, The bubble and its aftermath

Peace and security matters in Asia

The extractive capability of the State – The weakness of domestic politics

In the past, when possible, members of the Japan Communist Party, Liberal Democratic Party, working women managers, and buraku liberation leaders have been guest speakers. Lastly, a highlight of this course is a field trip to a Shiga Prison. This trip enables us to critically examine Japan's criminal justice system but also discuss larger public policy issues.

Japan and Its World to 1860

Dr. George O. Hlawatsch

Though an island country, Japan has hardly remained in isolation throughout its history. In the early period, relations with its nearest neighbors, Korea and China, were of great importance to Japan's development, and later with the coming of the West in the sixteenth century, Europe and then America became factors of change.

Nevertheless, as an island country, Japan has usually been able to control its relations with the "outside," at least in the traditional period. This course will examine Japan's relations with its neighbors and later the West.

Culture and Everyday Life in Japan: Japanese Society in Anthropological Perspective

Dr. Jeffry T. Hester

This survey course is designed to help students make sense of Japanese society by exploring key aspects of cultural meaning and patterns of behavior, along with the institutional contexts that provide coherence as well as make Japan a dynamically changing society.

We will pursue these aims primarily through the perspective of cultural anthropology. This discipline's greatest strength, through the method of participant-observation fieldwork, lies in its focus on the texture of people's everyday lives and experiences, and its devotion to understanding how behavior and beliefs are shaped by the cultural and historical contexts in which we live.

Topics to be explored in the course include:

- (1) the construction of a Japanese national identity, and nihonjinron;
- (2) normative understandings of interpersonal relations;
- (3) youth and the educational system;
- (4) gender, family and work;
- (5) social relations and identity in the urban context;
- (6) ritual, festivity and religious practice;
- (7) exchange practices and social relationships;
- (8) experiences of minorities, including "old- " and "new-comer" foreigners

Throughout the course, we will put our experiences of life in Japan to use in trying to understand changing patterns of behavior as well as the contradictions and conflicts that arise as people pursue meaning and satisfaction in their lives.

No background in the social sciences is required, but students should be prepared to reflect on their own cultural orientations, as well as work to make sense of those of people in Japan. Some cultural theory will be introduced in the course, primarily from cultural anthropology, to help provide a comparative framework for understanding Japan.

Readings

Students will read selections from a sampling of the "classics" in the anthropology of Japan (e.g., Benedict, Nakane). The bulk of the reading will be from more recent, carefully crafted ethnographic work such as that of Tobin, Fukuzawa and LeTendre on school settings, Ogasawara on gender and work, and Hester on Koreans in Japan.

Grading

Students' performance in the course will be evaluated on the basis of (1) in-class performance, including attendance, participation in class discussion, preparation of readings and other assignments, and mid-term and final quizzes (33%); (2) a mid-term interview report or analysis paper (33%); and (3) a final interview report or analysis paper (33%).

Students who wish to undertake a field work project or library research paper on a course-related topic, e.g., in connection with a senior thesis project, may petition the instructor to substitute a research paper for (2) and (3).

Onna to Otoko: Gender and Sexuality in Japan

Dr. Jeffrey T. Hester

This course aims to explore beliefs and practices in Japan related to gender and sexuality, and how they shape the lives of people in Japan. Through the course, students will gain the conceptual, historical and cultural background for understanding gender issues within the context of Japanese society.

In exploring such gender-related phenomena, we will discuss the meanings underpinning contested ideas of femininity and masculinity, gender roles and the gendered division of labor in Japan, and issues of sexuality, reproduction, and the body. A comparative, cross-cultural perspective will be employed throughout the course, and students will be asked to reflect on their own culturally specific, gendered perspectives and positions.

Course Topics

Topics to be covered include: (1) the symbolic construction of gender through language, religion and popular culture images; (2) the historical development of gender roles in Japan; (3) gender ideology, the politics of reproduction and the state; (4) socialization of gender roles; (5) family, work, and the gendered division of labor; (6) changing values and behavior at the intersection of sexuality and gender, including conjugal relations, commercialized worlds of sex, and commodification of the body; and (7) issues surrounding gay and lesbian identities and transgender issues in Japan.

Gender and sexuality are contested and dynamic areas of social life in Japan. Shaping this dynamism include legal changes involving equal employment opportunities in the workplace, sexual harassment, and the introduction of family and childcare leave for men; rising ages of marriage and declining rates of reproduction; labor market shifts that are eroding employment stability; shifting ideas of motherhood and fatherhood and the balance of family and work; the challenge to conventional gender roles by feminism; attempts by the state, in the face of an intensifying demographic crisis, to reshape gender roles through a "Plan for a Gender Equal Society," and a backlash from conservative quarters anxious to preserve gender role distinctions. At the same time, gender-bending and gender-blending have become mainstays of Japanese popular culture, while sexual and gender minorities make tentative progress in their struggle for rights and recognition. By the end of the course, students should have a better understanding of these issues and their linkages, and a sense of their importance to Japanese society and to the lives of individuals in Japan.

Students will read a wide range of authors from the literature on gender, culture and society in Japan from both "native" and foreign scholars and commentators, including Yuko Ogasawara, Chizuko Ueno, Shigeko Okamoto, Susan Holloway, Mark McLelland, Karen Kelsky, Masako Ishii-Kuntz, Emiko Ochiai, Akiko Takeyama, Atsuko Kameda and many others.

Grading

Grading will be based on (1) in-class performance, including participation in class discussion, preparation of reading and other assignments, and brief quizzes (33%); (2) a take-home midterm examination (33%); and (3) a take-home final examination (33%). A research paper may be substituted for (2) and (3) with instructor's approval of a written proposal.

Popular Culture as Social Practice: Fandoms, Subcultures and the Rest of Us

The aim of this course is to investigate the relationship between the consumption of popular cultural products (objects, images, discourses) and social life in Japan, based mostly on perspectives from cultural anthropology and cultural studies. The primary focus will be on fandoms, subcultures and identities structured through contemporary consumption practices.

Popular culture is intimately involved in the production and circulation of codes of meaning, forming an ever more significant aspect of what anthropologists call “culture.” While forming a huge, profit-motivated commercial sector, popular culture is also the site of the creation of dreams and longings, of styles of adornment, forms of play, social belonging, and identity. We increasingly know one another, and ourselves, through practices of pop culture consumption.

Course Topics

In this course, we will critically explore selected topics from the broad field of popular culture in Japan, with a focus on the relationships between cultural products, consumption practices, and social norms, practices, and tensions within Japanese society. We will briefly discuss the historical development of popular cultural industry in Japan, followed by the recent emergence of a discourse on “cool Japan.” Most of the course will be devoted to exploring specific fandoms, subcultures or cultural categories constructed around consumption practices such as otaku, the dôjinshi world and fujoshi female consumers of male-male eroticism, J-rappers, gyaru, visual-kei fans and the legendary fans of the Takarazuka Revue. Fans’ creative “play” with norms of gender and sexuality will be a theme running throughout the course. We will also explore questions of creativity and self-expression, constructions of “deviance,” and the role of popular culture in resistance to, or reinscription of, dominant norms.

We will also follow the global circulation of cultural products to and from Japan as they slip out of the original contexts of production, are adapted to local contexts and given new meanings and social effects. Students’ own interests in and expertise on aspects of popular culture will be utilized to help us make sense of links between popular culture consumption practices and other aspects of social life.

Readings

We will cover some readings on theoretical and conceptual issues in popular culture and society (e.g., John Storey, Peter Martin, David Chaney). Most readings will address recent specific Japanese popular cultural phenomena, as discussed in the writings of Ian Condry on J-rap, S. Kinsella on kawaii, L. Miller on gyaru, A. Mizoguchi on yaoi, C. Yano on enka, J. Stocker on manzai comedy, plus work on youth fashion, visual-kei musical performance, etc.

Grading

Students will be evaluated based upon (1) in-class performance, including: regular attendance, preparation of readings, participating in class discussion, and in-class group presentation (33%); (2) mini ethnographic projects: fan interview report and site report (33%); and (3) a popular culture consumption reflection essay, and a final in-class exam (33%).

Sexuality and Culture in Japan: Shifting Dimensions of Desire, Relationship and Society

In Japan today, while data show that young people are increasingly sexually active, analysts also note a trend of flagging interest in sex on the part of large numbers of youth, giving rise to the social character of the “herbivore man.” Young people can choose mates with much less social pressure than in the past, but fewer are able to find marriage partners. Sexualization in the media continues apace, certainly of girls but also including images of boys and men packaged for the consumption of women, even as depictions in the media are subject to scrutiny and regulation. At the same time, voices from small but dynamic movements built around lesbian, gay, transgender and queer identities are making their presence felt in the public arena. Sexuality is a contested and dynamic field in Japan. In this course, we will explore this topic with the aim of building a framework for understanding the complex currents of this aspect of human life within the historical, social and cultural context of Japan.

Sexuality is often understood, and experienced, as among the most private and personal aspects of human life. But like other areas of human action, sexuality is shaped within society, and varies cross-culturally and historically. The content of our erotic desires, how we act upon them, the norms that regulate them and the consequences of breaching such norms are deeply shaped by social context. Beliefs and practices surrounding sexuality are complexly linked to legal, political and economic systems, religious beliefs, and ideas about gender, the body and the self.

Topics for exploration will include changing aspects of mating, romance and marriage; sex education in Japanese schools and recent controversies over sex education policy and practice; conjugal sexual relations, contraceptive practice, and abortion; international romance and marriage; the exploitation and commodification of sexual and emotional ties, from Japan’s licensed quarters of earlier times to military sex slaves (“comfort women”) and more recently enjo kôsai (“assisted dating” with teenagers) and recent transnational trafficking in women; mizu shôbai (the after-dark “water trades”) and eroticized servicing by hostesses and hosts: sexual images in popular culture; and lesbian, gay, transgender and other minority sexual and gender identities and practices.

Readings

The English-language literature on sexuality-related issues in Japan has blossomed over the past 15 years or so. In addition to classic work by Ella Lury Wiswell and the 1970s research by Samuel Coleman, the course will be informed by the work of such authors as Sabine Früstück, Mark McLelland, Karen Kelsky, Deborah Shamon, Sarah Soh, Akiko Takeyama, and Chizuko Ueno. In addition, several films related to course themes will be screened.

Grading

Grading will be based on (1) in-class performance, including participation in class discussion, preparation of reading and other assignments, and brief quizzes (33%); (2) reaction papers on sets of readings and films screened in class (33%); and (3) a take-home final examination (33%). A research paper may be substituted for (2) and (3) with instructor’s approval of a written proposal.

Contemporary Japan and Globalization: Home and Abroad

Dr. Steven C. Fedorowicz

In today's world, it is widely held that global scale culture supersedes governments and political boundaries; economy is paramount. The new buzz-word to explain this phenomenon is "globalization." But what does this supposedly new concept really entail? Globalization is about movement and interaction: people, culture, technology, goods and services, money, religion and ideologies are moving through porous borders causing immediate and intense contact. This cultural contact affects everyone in the global village albeit in vastly different ways. Globalization is an uneven process in terms of the spread of new technologies and communication. Where does Japan and Japanese culture fit within globalization? It is easy to see global influences inside of Japan: McDonald's, Starbucks and fancy European brand names are everywhere. But Japanese culture has long been moving out and influencing other areas of the globe as well. This course will investigate globalization from an anthropological perspective focusing on the important and interesting movements and interactions between Japan and the rest of the world. How does globalization influence seemingly internal Japanese contemporary issues? Stereotypes of traditional Japanese culture such as the myth of isolation and uniqueness will also be addressed in this course.

Deaf World Japan: The Struggle of Disability, Identity and Language

Dr. Steven C. Fedorowicz

This course is an ethnographic examination of deaf culture in Japan and Japanese Sign Language. While the focus will be on deaf people and their language, it will be in the broader context of contemporary Japan. Deafness as deficit and deaf people as bicultural will be the major theoretical models. How are deaf and disabled people treated within Japanese society in the realms of education, social welfare, identity, and communication? Deaf people will be compared/contrasted with other so-called disabled people and other minorities in Japan in terms of discrimination issues and political movements. Cross-cultural comparisons of deaf people in the United States, France, Germany, Bali and other places will also be considered. A major component of this course will be the analysis and practical study of Japanese Sign Language.

Visual Anthropology of Japan

We have often heard the phrases “the camera never lies,” “seeing is believing” and “a picture is worth a thousand words.” Visual anthropology, in part, deals with the presentation and representation of culture through the use of film, video, still photography, art and other graphic media. How does one visually represent a culture? Culture has often been likened to an iceberg; we can only see the tip and perhaps the most important aspects are submerged and difficult to see. Visual anthropology strives to visualize the invisible – knowledge, values, morals, beliefs, perceptions, capabilities and private spaces. In this course, ethnographic films, photography and other visual media focusing on Japan will be examined, analyzed and evaluated in terms of providing understanding of Japanese culture. Who constructs such visual images, for what purpose and in what context will also be of concern. The theoretical focus of the course will be on the issues and consequences of visual representation; methodology and technique will also be discussed and practiced. The major student assignment of the course is the production of a short ethnographic film about some aspect of Japan such as traditional culture, popular culture, education, art, entertainment, sports, religion, gender, politics and globalization.

2. Gathering Data: Visual Fieldwork in Japan

Intercultural Communication in Japan

Communicating in an international context requires an understanding of factors that affect interaction between people from diverse cultural perspectives. The ability to look beyond cultural differences in order to recognize and appreciate the motivations of others is an important early step in developing communicative competence in a foreign language. Study of intercultural communication theory and research is critical to the success, relational development, and satisfaction of students who strive to maximize their language and cultural learning while in Japan.

This course is a practical introduction to theory and research in the field of intercultural communication as applied to a Japanese context. The primary course content focuses on perceptions, behaviors, values, and cultural patterns of human interaction, thereby assisting students in developing a clearer understanding of their own communicative perspectives as related to life in Japan. A variety of methods and activities, including class discussion, groupwork, lecture, cultural enactment, video critique, story telling, critical incident, written reflection, and in-class engagement, will be used to help students to develop intercultural communication competence.

Course Topics

Communication
Definitions of culture
Development of shared goals

Geisha, Gangsters and Samurai: Japan in Western Film

Dr. Mark Hollstein

Since the earliest days of cinema, Westerners filmmakers have used Japan as a mirror in which to reflect upon their own cultures. At times they have portrayed Japan as the model society that illuminates Western failures. At other times they have imagined the country as a corrupt world whose degenerate nature reinforces the superiority of Western values. Through it all has been a highly gendered narrative—Japan as the paradoxical land of ultra feminine geisha (soft, gentle and nurturing) and extremely masculine samurai and gangsters (cold, unyielding and dangerous). This course looks at how and why these contradictory images so easily coexist within the Western cinematic imagination. Of central concern is the way in which filmmakers have emphasized, exaggerated, distorted or ignored various aspects of Japanese culture to meet audience expectations, and the way in which images of Japan—constructed in response to specific historical events—have been recycled to justify or explain later situations. We will also consider how changes in class, gender and race relations in the West have influenced media images of the Japanese Other.

Japanese Popular Media and Culture

This course focuses on three central elements of Japanese popular media—manga, anime, and television drama. However, a variety of other media—such as pop music, theatre and live-action film—will be discussed as they relate to these three main topics. The course will begin with a look at the historical development of manga and anime and their relationship with traditional Japanese popular culture. Next we will examine the rise of modern manga and anime in the postwar period by focusing on their development from works aimed primarily at children to thematically diverse media that include mature works of social criticism. Of particular interest will be how these works both reflect and shape the debate over Japan's postwar identity. We will then examine the means of production, distribution and consumption of manga and anime in Japan. Our attention will then turn to television dramas in Japan. We will examine their relationship with manga and anime while discussing how they deal with and influence a variety of current social issues. The course will finish with a look at the popularity of all three media (manga, anime and TV dramas) abroad and how they are influencing foreign understandings and attitudes about Japan.

Readings

Assigned readings will be drawn from a variety of works including: F. Schodt, Dreamland Japan: Writings on Modern Manga, S. Napier, Anime: From Akira to Howl's Moving Castle; K. Iwabuchi, ed., Feeling Asian Modernities: Transnational Consumption of Japanese TV Dramas.

Monsters, Ghosts and the Making of Modern Japan

The Japanese popular imagination has always been haunted by myriad monsters, ghost, demons, and goblins. Whether it was the trickster kitsune of ancient folklore, scenes of torment awaiting sinners in Buddhist Hell scrolls, or the shinigami of modern manga like Death Note, Japan's many supernatural beings have always both frightened and entertained. But these are by no means the only two roles that such creatures have played in Japanese history. In this class we will study the many ways that monsters and ghosts have symbolized and personified the issues, problems, hopes and fears that have shaped modern Japan. We will begin by looking at the importance of the horrific and grotesque in the creation of Japanese popular culture in the 17th century. We will then discuss how 19th century Meiji modernizers created the scientific study of "monsterology" to debunk peasant superstition and to redirect supernatural belief toward a divine emperor. We will also examine how artists like Kawanabe Kyōsai, and writers such as Izumi Kyōka used monsters and ghosts to both resist and satirize modernization. We end the first half of the semester by looking at how the Western observer Lafcadio Hearn used Japanese ghost stories to feed a foreign appetite for images of a mysterious Orient.

Of course, this class will also examine modern uses of monsters and ghosts. We will begin the second half of the semester by examining how manga author Mizuki Shigeru used yōkai to help provide continuity with the past in a postwar Japan that had been torn from its traditions. We will discuss the political origins of Godzilla and read manga by authors such as Hino Hideshi and Umezu Kazuo who used horror to express their anxieties about the state of Japanese society in the 1960s, 70s and 80s. The course will finish with a look at recent Japanese TV and movie monsters from adult horror films like The Ring to popular children's animation like Pokemon. Our main concerns will be what such media say about Japan today, and how their popularity abroad shapes foreign preceptions of the country. By the end of this course, you will have learned a great deal about Japanese monsters, myths and legends. You should also have a much deeper appreciation of Japanese history, society, media and culture.

Japanese Buddhism

Prof. Elizabeth Kenney

This course presents an overview of Japanese Buddhism: different conceptions of salvation, everyday rituals, social issues, karma and reincarnation. We will discuss the important doctrines connected with the major denominations of Japanese Buddhism: Shingon, Nichiren, Pure Land, and Zen.

In addition, issues and trends in Buddhism today will be explored, partly through films and literature. As we shall see, contemporary Japanese Buddhism is criticized as being a dead religion, nothing but a funeral business. Is this true? At the same time, energetic newer Buddhist organizations like Soka Gakkai, challenge the traditional roles of priests and temples.

Along the way, we will reflect on our own presuppositions and projections about what Buddhism is or should be. Is Buddhism a tolerant, humanistic philosophy of self-awareness and compassion? Is it a religion of magic and ritual?

Shinto

Prof. Elizabeth Kenney

Mythology and manga, animism and anime: Shinto, the ancient religion of Japan, is still today an important part of the Japanese cultural imagination. Shinto is visible everywhere, and there are few Japanese people who do not have some contact with Shinto, many of them on a regular basis. Yet it is not easy to answer the question, What is Shinto? We will look at Shinto from as many perspectives as possible: religious, philosophical, anthropological, and political. However Shinto is defined, there is no doubt that Japan is the place to study Shinto. Thus students are encouraged to explore Shinto in today's Japan as part of their work for the course.

How should we lead our daily lives? Zen also asks some of its own questions: Is ordinary life in some way incomplete? Can a dog become a Buddha? What is the point of meditation?

The History and Ideology of the Japanese Warrior

Dr. John Shultz

Visions of the Japanese warrior in his many forms loom largely through the history of East Asia and through popular sentiments of what being a warrior is all about. Martial arts and the profession of soldiery are described in Japan as a “path” or “way.” This implies that such disciplines are not reducible to technical skills, but represent an ideology. Indeed, a continual refrain from the distant past to the present is that the spirit of the warrior lies at the very heart of Japanese people and Japanese culture. In this course, we seek to examine the character of the Japanese warrior throughout history to determine what constitutes the worldview of combatants and to see if there is consistency with respect to these ideas over time. More specifically, we will look at archetypical warriors using prototypical weapons in exemplary battles through famous literature, films, and historical accounts.

Cross-Cultural Psychology

Dr. Reggie Pawle

Our psychology is interwoven with the society within which we live. How we understand ourselves and how we function psychologically is interconnected with our culture. Our thinking, our emotions, our actions, our dreams – all these are greatly influenced culturally. As societies become more and more interactive, knowledge and sensitivity to similarities and differences of the psychologies of people around the world increases in importance. Cross-cultural psychology is a comparative study of psychologies of different cultures. This course focuses on studies of comparisons of two parts of psychology. The first is research of important aspects of psychological functioning: sense of self, values, thinking, perception, emotions, development, and relationships. The second is issues that are important for clinical psychology: theoretical foundations in the West and in Asia, cultural issues, dreams, and pain. Case studies and role plays will be part of the clinical study. Students will be expected to interact cross-culturally with other students. For more information, see Dr. Pawle's website: www.reggiepawle.net.

Mind and Body in Yoga, Buddhism, and Daoism

Dr. Reggie Pawle

This course is a study of how mind and body are engaged in the practices of yoga, Buddhism, and Daoism, and the applications of these ways of engagement in modern life and psychology. The aim is both to understand the theories and experience the practices. This course focuses on the ways of self-cultivation in these three Asian religions. Particular attention is given to the mind-body dynamic. The functions of mind that are developed, how the body is trained, the understanding of mental illness and mental health, and how to cultivate a fully alive person all are examined in yoga, Buddhist, and Daoist practices. Each class will be a combination of study and practices, so students need to be willing to participate in exercises in each class. Experiential exercises will include yoga practices, Buddhist meditation practice, Chi Gung exercises, Zen koan practice, mandala drawing, Morita exercises, Naikan exercises, breathing practices, martial art practices, and sensory awareness practice.

Modern Girls, Masculine Girls, Gothic Lolita and Witches: Japanese Shojo Studies

Prof. Akiko Sugawa

Shojo (a girl) is one of the most disturbing issues in Japanese culture. Shojo is often associated with purity, innocence, and romance, while it is used as an object to be punished and marginalized ('abjection'). Representations of shojo in manga, anime and cinema serve as sites in which Japanese societal expectations to girls as well as feminist thoughts are traced.

This course is designed as an introduction to Japanese shojo culture through contemporary Japanese shojo manga, anime, and cinema, including NAKAHARA Junichi's illustrations, TEZUKA Osamu's Princess Knight, IKEDA Riyoko's Rose of Versailles, MIYAZAKI Hayao's Nausicaa of the Valley of the Wind, IKUHARA Kunihiko's Revolutionary Girl Utena, TAKEUCHI Naoko's Sailor Moon, NAKASHIMA Tetsuya's Kamikaze Girls, and Murobuchi Gen's Puella Magi Madoka Magica. This course will explore how 20th and 21st century Japanese live-action films, anime, manga and films act as a commentary on Japanese shojo in society, as well as how they illuminate us about more general themes of consumerism, gender issues and modern life. Some of the issues we will cover are (1) development of Japanese shojo culture and how shojo is represented in modern visual products, (2) how social issues involving gender roles and family relations are represented by shojo, functioning to reinforce or call into question these issues, and (3) the images of shojo and the presumed expectations and stereotypes these images create against the realities of contemporary Japan.

New Japanese Cinema 1995-2010

Dr. Paul Berry

Japanese films have had a wide international audience since Kurosawa's 1950 prize-winning film Rashomon. Although recent films from Japan have again been capturing attention at international film festivals, only a small fraction of the popular films of Japan have been seen by foreign audiences. This course examines a wide range of recent films - some much discussed in the West, others little known - that represent a variety of the most popular genres and directors active today. Readings and lectures will introduce not only the director's work but the cultural and literary backgrounds of the individual films. Genres include love stories, suspense, period drama, horror, anime, and fantasy. Some aspects of film and cultural studies will augment the analysis and appreciation of works.

This course does not assume a background in film studies.

The Relation of Life and Fiction in Modern Japanese Literature

Dr. Paul Berry

Japanese culture is often regarded as a complexly structured society that contains extremes of beauty and discipline, openness and secrecy, and religious fervor and secular passion. Sometimes these impressions seem to be the stereotypes created in the West, yet they may also include national themes stressed within Japan. In order to see beyond the clichés of Japan, this course examines major aspects of modern Japanese culture through the relationship of life to literature. The interest in employing the author's personal experience as the basis for serious fiction (shishosetsu) has been one of the key practices of writers in modern Japan. This multidisciplinary approach will discuss a variety of novels, essays, and related films to reveal varied aspects of identity, art, and politics that are important routes to understanding twentieth-century Japanese literature.

Lectures and discussions will range widely over a number of topics including the relation of sexuality and identity, questions of national image, imagination and realism, and representations of Hiroshima in fiction and film. This course assumes no special background in Japanese studies and is open to students at all levels.

From Zen to Paradise: Buddhist Art in Japan

Prof. Karin L. Swanson

This is an introductory-level course designed to maximize the experience of looking at Buddhist art in Japan. Often, after visiting “must-see” famous temples, a visitor with little or no background in Japanese art or Buddhist imagery, comes away having gained very little. The goal of this class is to prepare first for group trips to temples in the Kansai area, and near the end of the semester, a visit on your own.

The class is organized so that you learn first about Buddhism as a religion, especially focusing on the earliest Buddhist arts: those of India and China. Following this brief introduction, we will learn how and why Buddhism came to Japan, and what kind of art was first made and used here. Continuing in a chronological order, from the beginnings of Buddhism in Japan in the 6th century, we will see how this religious art changed and developed throughout Japanese history, often influenced by political and social changes.

Throughout the course, changes in Buddhist art will be explored not only from the standpoint of stylistic changes, but more importantly, how the choice of images reflected popular sects and prevalent religious ideas of that particular age.

There will be field trips in the course of the semester, each done on a weekend day.

Readings

A reading packet will be available in the CIE office. In addition, handouts will be provided by the instructor in the course of the semester. Many illustrated books will also be on reserve in the library.

Basic Ceramic Techniques

Mr. Yoshio Inomata

The object of this course is to establish a basic mastery of traditional Japanese techniques through actual practice, with the emphasis on wheel throwing. The course will also include, from time to time, a consideration of distinctive regional techniques, and the special characteristics of some modern Japanese pottery, presented in the context of studio practice.

A practice fee of ¥10,000 per semester, payable in advance, will be charged to all students accepted for enrollment in the course. Enrollment will be limited to 35 students. This course requires 8 hours studio practice per week, and it will be arranged around your other classes.

Recommended Reading:

Penny Simpson, Japanese Pottery Handbook

In addition, a number of illustrated volumes in Japanese and English will be put on non-circulating reserve in the library, for general reference.

Course Procedures:

Instruction will begin with clay wedging and proceed to building and slab construction, and the basic throwing techniques for cups and bowls. Various glaze compositions and glazing methods will be introduced at an appropriate point along with a consideration of certain decorative devices such as stamping, inlay and brushwork.

Evaluation:

Grades will be based on the level of technical skill achieved during the semester, and on the quality of finished pieces submitted for possible inclusion in a final exhibition of student works. This overall rating of technical proficiency will constitute sixty percent of the final grade. Regular attendance is regarded as essential, and more than ten percent absence could result in a failing grade. Attendance will count for twenty percent of the final grade. The final twenty percent will be a rating of student effort and participation.

Japanese-Chinese Brush Painting (SUMI-E)

Ms. Kathleen Scott

This studio course is designed to introduce students to the basic techniques of Japanese-Chinese monochromatic ink painting. Material specific to this medium are introduced and include various papers, inks, and brushes. During the first half of the semester, traditional flower motifs (bamboo, orchid, plum, and chrysanthemum) are used as points of departure. The latter half of the course is devoted to the compositional principles and brush techniques involved in Japanese-Chinese landscape painting, (J., sansui-ga).

Five hours of studio time are supplemented by a minimum of three hours of individual work. Students are required to display one of their final works in an exhibition at the end of the semester.

Classes meet three times a week, and one of these meetings is considered the primary teaching day. New material is introduced and techniques applied. Due to the importance of this first teaching day, in order to enroll in sumi-e, students must be able to arrange their schedules to fit into one of the teaching blocs. The remaining schedule will be arranged according to priorities.

Notes:

- No prior painting experience is required.
- As with all studio courses, attendance is mandatory.
- Class enrollment is limited to 35 students.
- Payment of the ¥10,000 materials fee must be completed before registration. In the event this course is dropped, the following refund policy will be enacted:

1) During orientation	100%
2) During the first week of school	50%
3) During the second week	0%

- This course is worth 3 semester units of credit.
